ENERGY - WATER - FOOD NEXUS

The drought has highlighted the important role of water in our lives. It is critically interdependent with energy and food supply for our social and economic stability. Energy suppliers, organised agriculture and water supply authorities need to co-exist but they find themselves in competition for key resources; resources that are scarce and increasingly expensive.

The purpose of this event will be to present multiple perspectives on the topic and to allow the audience to also engage with the industry experts. The panel members will seek to highlight the key features of these essential services and how trade-offs and compromises can be made to ensure effective use of the vital resources.

PANEL MEMBERS: Prof Harro von Blottnitz - UCT CV, Louise Scholtz - WWF CV
Deidre Herbst – Eskom CV
